Passing Your Business and Wealth to the Next Generation

You've invested years of hard work to successfully build your own business and wealth, so it is natural to consider how you can successfully transfer the fruits of your labor to your heirs—the next generation of leaders and beyond—in order to carry on the family tradition. After all, if a family enterprise were a relay race, it would make no sense to lead first leg, then not provide those runners who follow with the best tools and training to keep the pace.

Unfortunately, some founders are reluctant to let go of the business, failing to see the family business enterprise as a continuum. It is not uncommon to find immensely successful entrepreneurs in their 60s who are reluctant to cede control to their children as they continue to play significant roles in driving growth of the business. In fact, by the time they pass control to their progenies, many of these founders would be in their 70s.

This preference to have direct control and ownership till the very last minute often has adverse repercussions. By then, either the founder has become physically or mentally weak, or conflicts would have arisen, with various family members bickering or having devised ways to get larger shares of the family wealth. Successful families often assume that their current harmony will perpetuate across the different generations, and this leads them to think that detailed estate and succession planning is unnecessary.

Perhaps It Is Time For A Career Change

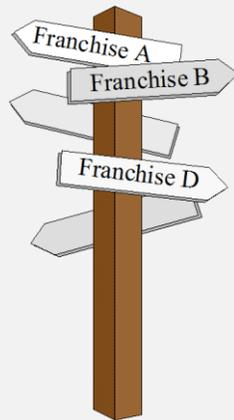

...And An Opportunity To Invest In Yourself

Are you tired of your job? Is your boss driving you to your wits' ends? You have the urge to tell your boss what she / he can do with the latest company policy. Are you scared that you might be next to get the official pink slip? The reality of corporate life is becoming more painful ... you are expected to do more with less... job security is an illusion... your work-life and income is being dictated by someone else... your employer isn't investing in your future. Today, creating your own job has become the new path to job security.

Would this scenario be of interest and value to you...a process where you receive assistance to help you better identify your goals, financial requirements, lifestyle needs and what you would like for your work-life to look like; then provided information on self-employment options and guidance on exploring these opportunities within the confines of a safe and no-obligation environment? Remember, a window of opportunity won't open itself...

Do you have an entrepreneurial spirit? If so, contact me. There is no obligation and there is never a cost for my service. You have nothing to lose, except perhaps "that opportunity" that is just for you.

"Featured" Concepts for March

The right franchise / business opportunity for you, may be one that you have never heard of and wouldn't even guess.

There are thousands of franchise / business opportunities available today and cover just about everything from advertising to food services, home repair to laundry / dry cleaning, maid services to printing / copy services, real estate to weight control...from small to large and startups to nationally recognized. These concepts have various investment ranges and include many different industry categories. And, since the company knows the business, they aren't looking for owners with industry experience. They want prospective owners who possess a strong work ethic, customer service orientation, business and management skills, not technical expertise.
